Question!

What is a phishing scam and how can we protect our organization and employees?

ANSWER:

Phishing is a scam in which the attacker pretends to be a trusted person or company and uses electronic means such as emails, texts, or phone calls to steal information. Specifically, the attacker tries to trick you into handing over sensitive information like usernames, passwords, payroll data, banking information, and customer data. They often encourage you to click a link, download an attachment, or provide information—sometimes by mimicking legitimate emails you would expect to receive. A successful phishing attack can be costly, in terms of both finances and your company's reputation.

Longshoremen's Local 4 Federal Credit Union Privacy Policy

The protection of our member's privacy and the safekeeping of confidential information is of the utmost concern to the Credit Union.

It is the Credit Union's intent to comply with all applicable laws and regulations concerning the treatment of both member and non-member information, and educate our members as to their privacy rights under law. This policy outlines the purposes for which member information will be collected and released outside of the Credit Union.

Information Collected

The Credit Union will only collect that information necessary to establish an on-going relationship with members and joint account holders. Information on an individual member may be collected from a variety of sources, including but not limited to, the member's signature card, loan application and credit bureaus. Furthermore, the Credit Union will take reasonable precautions to protect the accuracy and reliability of member information.

Information Shared with Affiliates and Third Parties

The Credit Union will not sell nonpublic personal information on its members to any third party. The Credit Union may disclose nonpublic personal information about an individual member or members with member consent, in order to effect a transaction, to protect the Credit Union's interest, or for other purposes permitted by the law and regulation.

Third Party Privacy Standards

The Credit Union will only disclose nonpublic personal information about its members to affiliates and confidentiality of member information, and who have adopted privacy policies comparable to those adopted by the Credit Union.

Security and Confidentiality

As a part of the Credit Union's commitment to protect the confidentiality of member account information, the Credit Union will establish procedures for periodically training staff on the importance of member privacy and the Credit Union's privacy. Staff will only be permitted to access members account information when necessary for business reasons. Finally, the Credit Union will establish appropriate security standards to protect against unauthorized access to member information.

Availability of Policy

The Credit Union is proud of its commitment to member confidentiality and will make this policy available to any consumer requesting it.
